

Where are the termites hiding?

Between the exterior and interior of your home lies a no-man's-land inaccessible to professional termite inspection. These spaces, however, are not inaccessible to termites, which feed there undetected. Spot treatments often miss them, giving you a false sense of security and wasting your money. A complete treatment with Vikane* gas fumigant reaches and kills every termite, even those that were never located.

The roof over your head keeps you dry, but it also may be a haven for termites.

Wooden studs and framing are a feast for termites.

If termites are hidden here, your home's foundation may not be so firm.
